

CHECK OUT WHAT INSPIRED

Dylan Camp

"Let's start with my great grandmother Roena Spencer, she was a twin with Floena, they're both pictured with their husbands. The top three photos are old ancestor photos I was able to come across."

Side note: a side by side photo of my dad and our ancestor George Spencer is spookily spot on, my dad took his face!

"These photos showcase my family, including my grandmother and grandfather, who grew up in the 1950s-60s. They had many siblings and first cousins, making this compilation significant as it includes yearbook photos from Russelville High School, the school most of my Spencer family attended."

Dylan Camp, Carolyn Spencer (my grandmother)

From left to right
Top row:
Dylan Camp, Kameron Spencer (cousin),
She'lah Spencer (sister)

Middle row: Fadell Spencer (cousin), Kaleigh Johnson (cousin), Daniel Kayden Johnson (cousin)

Bottom row: Jaden Spencer (cousin), Sammy Spencer (our grandfather), Jordan Spencer (cousin)

"This photo shows my great-grandmother's parents, Jesse and Emma Luckadue, from Little Rock, Arkansas, holding a picture of their daughter, my great-grandmother's sister. My family refers to them as Daddy and Momma. I was close to my grandmother until she passed when I was 14, and my mother also knew her grandparents."

RUSSELVILLE, KY
2025

Finally, here are some landscape images Camp captured in Russelville, Kentucky, that have inspired her. These photos not only provide a visual representation of nature in her paintings but also offer context about her family's journey.

